

IPSWICH RIVER BILL PROPOSE TO INUNDATE WILMINGTON

A legislative proposal, heard yesterday in the State House, could cause the town to lose control of 83% of the land in Wilmington, by making Wilmington a part of an 'Ipswich River Watershed Commission' and the principal reservoir for that Commission.

The bill as proposed would have six reservoirs constructed in the town, in all parts of Wilmington, for use of residents of towns and cities in Essex County.

The proposal was termed a 'Monster Proposal' by two Wilmington residents who were present - Selectman Lloyd Bender and William McKinnon, a member of the Wilmington Conservation Commission

A self appointed group of Essex County residents told a Legislative Committee of Water Resources that House Bill #1115, which they had had filed by Rep. Francis Hatch of Beverly, should be given emergency treatment by the Legislature.

The group was heard Wednesday morning. The hearing, which kept getting larger in scope, had to be moved twice to larger rooms and finally settled in the Gardner Auditorium.

Representative Fred F Cain appeared against the bill, as did Representative Frank Tanner of Reading.

Selectman Paul Niles of Wilmington objected strongly to the bill. He told the Legislative Committee that no bill, with such a scope as this one, should be originated by a self-appointed committee, but rather should have come from a responsible Legislative Study Group.

The group, he said, should come from all of the towns involved, and should not be composed of residents of a few cities and towns only. Niles and Bender both agreed that they were willing to have the Town of Wilmington participate in any study of the Ipswich River Watershed, but asked specifically that the town should be invited to participate.

Wilmington, they said, should have an opportunity to make recommendations in any proposed legislation which could so much affect Wilmington's future.

Selectman James Miceli of Wilmington was recorded as being opposed to the bill, as was Town Manager Dick Henneberger and Bill Childs, of the Wilmington Conservation Commission.

Bender, noting that even the proponents had admitted that it was a 'badly drawn bill' protested on those grounds as well.

A North Reading resident, believed to be a member of the Conservation Commission of that town, spoke in favor, after having admitted that he had not seen the bill until the evening before, and had not read it.

Financing Assured

Monte Green, president of the North of New Boston Realty Corp, in a press conference in his office in Cambridge, yesterday afternoon declared that his corporation would have no trouble in financing the proposed stadium, in North Wilmington.

Contrary to public opinion, Mr. Green declared, the stadium was not dependent on sporting events for its main revenue.

There would be a much larger revenue accruing from other sources, such as exhibits and conventions. There would be enough revenue, from this source, to nearly pay for the stadium, so that a small amount of sports activities would really swing the project into the 'profit column'.

Green pointed to the annual boat show, held at Revere, as an example of how stadiums could make money without sports.

National conventions, oil and steel companies, and many other groups, want to use the proposed stadium for their meetings. Many of them were talking of three to ten day conventions.

The stadium, he also said, could be used as a site for the 1967-8 Olympics. An intense effort is being made by New England groups to have the Olympics of that year in New England.

Green said that he had had a conference, just the day before with Red Sox officials, and there was good reason to believe that the Red Sox would be wanting to use the stadium for its home games.

The stadium will probably be called the New England Stadium, he told the Town Crier. Several large firms have offered substantial sums, if they would be allowed to name the stadium after their company, but these offers were not being accepted.

Wilmington Chamber of Commerce

DOES ANYONE LIKE A FINCOMMAN?

It's about that time of the year again. The annual Town Meeting is upon the voters of Wilmington. The Finance Committee, now reduced to seven members by the resignation of Fred Arsenault, has made its recommendations, and just about everybody in town is being boing.

Depending on the point of view of the voter, the members of the FinCom are either riding high, or else mighty low. And no matter what point it is, the FinCom members will agree that it is sharp.

For the past three months they have been meeting every Monday night - open sessions, but on the same Monday that the Selectmen meet.

That means, to Suspicious Joe, or his brother, that the FinCom doesn't want to be bothered by the Selectmen. He's the same guy who made the same statement about the Permanent Building Committee meeting on Monday nights, for the same reason.

The Town Manager has found it tough to get to the Finance Committee meetings for the same reason - he meets with the Selectmen on Mondays.

So that gentleman hasn't been happy about the way things have been going.

In their preamble to the Report to the Voters the Finance Committee, this year, had a few tart, or at least semi-tart words to say about the operation of the Water Department in the past year.

That puts the boys in that Department on Unhappy Street. They'll point out that Wilmington has put in about half a million dollars in new well fields etc., and that no one in Wilmington was stopped from washing his car, any time in the past year. And then the FinCom has to make a remark!

You just can't win.

There are, at the moment, two classes of people in Wilmington in regard to dogs. But when it comes to the Finance Committee there is only one.

Those who love dogs, and want them leashed, aren't happy. Those who don't want dogs are perhaps for a more obscure reason, just as unhappy. And the FinCom is in the middle.

The Dog Leash article bids to be the most argued one in this year's Town Meeting.

Really, of course, the FinComMen have no one to blame but themselves. If they didn't speak up with their opinions no one would be mad at them! It's the same rule that applies to the writing of an editorial column. The editor who doesn't speak his mind may live a happy ordered life - and perhaps he has to live on his good looks, too.

Who wants a FinCom that is nice and bland, anyway?

PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH

In order that there be no misunderstanding, in this, the Town Crier's Annual Jump on the FinCom, let it be understood that the Town Crier is a fully paid up member of the Wilmington chamber of Commerce, and that it supports the Chamber, in its efforts to make Wilmington a better town in which to live.

It would appear, at this writing, that the Chamber of Commerce articles in the warrant for the annual Town Meeting, are going to get some rough sledding from the FinCom.

That, of course, is why the gentlemen are there but it might be well to review a little history.

About 18 months ago, after the sudden increase in assessments on business and industrial property in Wilmington, some of the business men of this town offered to donate $40,000 to pay for a complete and impartial re-appraisal of taxable property.

The offer was turned down by the then TM, who argued that there was no need for such a re-appraisal. And, by and large, the FinCom agreed.

A year ago, in the annual Town Meeting, some of the people in this town tried to have money raised by the town for a re-appraisal.

The FinCom, among others, was dead against the idea.

Then, last October, the news broke that people on Chestnut Street etc were being hit by the same kind of tax jumps that made the business men unhappy. There was a change in the thinking of the FinCom, just about that time.

Possibly it was because Voters were yelling, this time. The FinCom almost turned handsprings, in approving money for a re-appraisal. The town didn't have the $40,000 that the business men had offered, so the money for the reappraisal came out of the taxpayer's pocket.

The Town Crier suggests that the voters bear this in mind, in Saturday's meeting, because it looks as though the Urban Renewal project is to be treated to a course in FinCom Politics.

It seems as though the Finance Committee is seeking to ham-string the powers of the Urban Renewal project, down on Eames Street.

Again the business men of Wilmington are making an offer to the town - this time through the Chamber of Commerce. In that offer are many things which are not readily apparent, unless one stops to think.

For instance - for years people have been talking of extending the MDC sewer to Wilmington Square. It now services only a part of South Wilmington.

To Wilmington Square would require a new sewer main of nearly two miles in length - say half a million dollars.

Half a million dollars is not readily accessible. If by any chance the town could have an offer by a private firm, or some other such source, to lay a part of that sewer, the town should at least seriously consider it - and not throw the offer out the window as happened to the offer from those businessmen 18 months ago.

And there is distinctly a possibility that, in the Urban Renewal project a sewer might be laid for one fifth of the distance to Wilmington Square, and possibly without one cent of cost to the Wilmington tax payer.

That would be worth $100,000, more or less. There is no guarantee that it will happen - that the people of Wilmington will receive such a bonus.

But, if the powers of the Redevelopment Authority is hamstrung, as some members of the FinCom seem to want there then could be a definite guarantee that it will never happen.

When Wilmington had a previous Urban Renewal project (under Federal auspices) there was a sad sad history of politicians playing with Dirks and Daggers, beneath the meeting table. The then TM just sat and sat and sat, and there were other things too, so that the Urban Renewal project died a-borning.

Dear Larz

48 Andover Street

A few thoughts regarding the article in this year's town meeting regarding the leash law -

It seems that those in favor of the leash law are commonly characterized (by those against leashing) as animal, and dog in particular, haters.

Quite the contrary. I have found out, in discussing the issue around town. The points I hear mentioned most frequently are:

1. There are altogether too many dogs roaming singly and in packs doing damage to people's property and,

2. It is just plainly not safe any longer for young children to play out in their yards. Anyone inclined to reject point number two has only to refer to this year's town report which provides statistics on the number of reported dog bite cases (and resulting anti-tetanus shots) during 1965.

Several weeks ago radio station WEEI presented a most convincing editorial on the general subject of leash laws. Mr. Tregaser, Vice President of the station was most emphatic in telling of the general need and desirability of legislation in this area. Two facts which stood out were:

1. There were over 1400 dog bites reported in the City of Boston. (This means, on a comparative population ratio, that the dog bite rate in Wilmington is 400 PER CENT GREATER than the figure considered so serious in Boston).

2. Dogs which are allowed to roam free enjoy a life expectancy of fourteen months.

I am suggesting that those favoring a leash law are more genuinely concerned with the welfare and safety of their and others dogs than those against leashing.

I am further suggesting that of ultimate interest to most families and home owners are their natural rights regarding property and privacy and, of course, the safety of their children.

According to a nearby newspaper we read that the police department and a town board have already turned thumbs down on this proposal. This is hard to understand, since these agencies are supposed to be concerned with our protection and welfare.

The argument put forth is the cost of implementation. Somehow a figure of $50,000 has been plucked out of the air.

One wonders how this princely sum of money was arrived at. Eight to ten thousand seems more realistic, and, in view of the almost unnoticeable effect this would have on the tax rate, how better could the town spend its money?

This article deserves careful, mature consideration.

Yours very truly
Hugo W. Wilberg

Dear Larz

This letter presents my views (a non-New Englander) on the Town Meeting.

I originally came to New England and Wilmington in 1956. Since then, about this time of year, I ask the same question - 'What's the purpose of the Town Meeting?'

Indeed, it is said by solid New Englanders that it is the most democratic form of Town Government. It most certainly was 50 to 100 years ago. However, today it is not.

Wilmington at this writing has over 6200 voters. On 5 March 1966, the Saturday set aside for the Wilmington townspeople to elect officials, over 2300 voters (37%) cast their ballots. However, I predict that on Saturday 12 March 1966 less than 500 people will show up and vote on the various Articles in the Town Warrant.

This is certainly not unusual because in past elections even less attended the Town Meeting. As this represents only 7% of the eligible voters it appears that this so called democratic form of home rule is not that at all.

Why the five fold difference in the turnout of voters in a time span of only seven days?

The answer is simply that it is considerably more convenient to take one half hour out of a busy Saturday to vote than it is to spend (on the average) six consecutive hours in a stuffy auditorium.

It appears, at least to my way of thinking, that the elected officials (Board of Selectmen) and the Town Manager should carefully review our Town By Laws and suggest changes that would promote greater voter participation on Town Government matters. I would suggest the following:

(1) Retain the Town Meeting but have it serve the purpose of discussing the Article or issue in question. The Town voters attending would not vote but only listen and discuss the articles. The results would be made public. The views of the Town Manager, Selectmen, etc. could be made known to the voters in published minutes of the meeting.

(2) These non-voting Town Meetings would take place at a given date or dates and times that would be more convenient to the voter than now.

(3) A given date then be set aside for the Town voters to vote, by secret ballot, on the Articles before the Town. The time set aside for this secret vote would be, for example, 10 am to 8 pm. As a consequence both members of a family could vote at their convenience on all Articles in question.

Changes in the present Town By Laws are inevitable. It would certainly be to the credit of our present governing body to review and modernize Wilmington's By Laws, especially those dealing with the Town Meeting.

Yours truly
Henry E. Hoercher

Dear Larz:

It is good to hear that the Finance Committee disapproves of the present Building Committee's plans for a new library building. The voters should also disapprove. The building is too small for the price tag - 14,000 square feet for $459,000 or $32 per square foot. Also knowledge on available Federal Aid is lacking.

Since the average library building in Massachusetts hovers around $24 per sq. ft., Wilmington should get at least 18,000 square feet for $459,000. Other towns are building in the $24 price range, and some are doing it with partial air conditioning while others are doing it with complete air conditioning. So air conditioning cannot be blamed for the expensive price of the PBC's building.

How are other towns building highly functional, very attractive, inexpensive libraries? They are hiring architectural firms with plenty of library designing experience.

Then too, if one architect does not deliver what is required by the Library Board, a different one is hired. I think Wilmington has come to this point. Two unsuccessful tries for a functional, attractive, and cheap building are enough!

If this library article is voted down, as it should be, I hope the Library Board will ask and receive the right to try another architect. Perhaps they should be backed up in this request by the TM and Selectmen, since they appoint both the Library Board and PBC.

I wish all Wilmington voters could see the brochure I have of the proposed Bedford Library. For $260,000 the 13,000 sq. ft. building is one of the most attractive and highly functional libraries I have seen in a long time. Its graceful

Selectmen's Meeting

The Board of Selectmen, with newly elected member Jim Miceli and returned veteran Charles Black, met Monday night at 9:30 P.M. to discuss any action to be taken by the Board on article #12, proposing land taking for an extension of the town beach, to hear a report from Conservation Committee Chairman Jack Quinn on a bill currently before the legislature, and to review certain aspects of the budget with Town Manager Richard Henneberger.

Joseph McCabe and Silvio DelNinno of Pond Street appeared before the Board to request that they act as a Board to move to pass over at the town meeting the article taking Mr. McCabe's home and part of Mr. DelNinno's property as an extension to the town beach on the Tewksbury side.

McCabe and DelNinno had made the same request last week, but the Selectmen had deferred a decision until after the election.

Discussion became heated when Mrs. Drew and Selectman Bender suggested that McCabe and DelNinno make the motion to pass over the article themselves. McCabe demanded that the Board take a vote on whether or not to move to pass over the article. 'We would like to know how our Selectmen will vote on this,' he said.

Mrs. Drew said that it was not fair to Miceli and Niles, who were not present at the original discussion, to ask them to vote without first discussing the matter.

McCabe protested that the Board had promised him a vote, and he wanted it immediately.

Bender said, 'This is our meeting, and you can't tell us what to do.' Bender then read from the minutes of the last meeting, which said that he, Bender, had moved that a consensus of opinion be taken at the next meeting.

'Let's hear that consensus,' said McCabe.

'You just heard the minutes,' Bender replied.

Mrs. Drew commented that she would prefer to see the beach extension in the other direction, but the Recreation Commission had recommended otherwise.

Miceli said he could understand McCabe's involvement with his home, and suggested that the Board give him its consensus.

'No doubt we will,' Mrs. Drew replied.

Niles recommended not moving to pass over the article, but leaving the question for the town meeting to decide. McCabe pleaded with Niles to vote to pass over the article. 'I will vote at town meeting. I will not vote tonight to pass over this article,' Niles replied.

'I intend to fight for my home and my family,' McCabe said. 'I beseech you and implore you, don't beat me. The town doesn't need it that badly.'

Bender, Black, and Miceli all agreed with Niles that the final decision should be up to the town meeting.

McCabe asked Mrs. Drew if he might have her vote.

'I sympathize with you,' Mrs. Drew said, 'but it is up to the town meeting to decide.'

McCabe, obviously angered at the results of the vote, left the meeting.

Further discussion on the matter ensued with Mr. DelNinno and Mr. and Mrs. William J. McNabb of Fitz Terrace on the double problem of parking and trespassing in the area.

John Quinn, Chairman of the Conservation Commission, appeared before the Board to request their assistance in opposing a bill before the legislature which would automatically make Wilmington a member of the Ipswich River Water Shed District. Quinn said, 'This is the broadest bill you've ever seen.' Under the terms of the bill, any use of water will require approval of the commissions, which will meet only twice a year, Quinn told the Board. He explained that he felt the bill would hamper the town in its use of water.

Members of the Board and the Town Manager agreed to attend a hearing on the bill on Wednesday, and also said that they would as a Board, request the assistance of Representative Cain in fighting the bill.

BUDGET

The Board again discussed with TM Henneberger the question of appropriating money in the budget for the airing of two additional police officers for the Police Department in accordance with the recommendations of a 1964 police survey. Henneberger said that he had no objections to the addition, if that constituted the desire of the Board.

Fred Jaeschke of the Maintenance Department met with the Board to discuss reductions made in the maintenance budget by the Finance Committee. Henneberger told the Board that $11,790 had been cut from the budget, and they didn't know which items had been cut. Both Henneberger and Jaeschke maintained that the cut would make adequate maintenance impossible.

The Board agreed to investigate the matter and discuss it further at their Wednesday night meeting on the wording of the motions.

The meeting adjourned at 11:20 P.M.

State Official says:

Retain Redevelopment Options

Edward Mangini, Director of Financial and Technical Assistance in the State Department of Urban Renewal told the Selectmen, Finance Committee and Planning Board, Monday night, that it was desirable to retain the option for Redevelopment, in the three Urban Renewal Articles of the warrant for the annual Town Meeting.

The meeting was in the High School small cafeteria, with about 14 other interested persons present, in addition to town officials. Town officials included the entire Board of Selectmen, the entire Planning Board, and four members of the Finance Committee. Also present were the Town Counsel, Town Manager, chairman of the Housing Authority and three members of the School Board.

Questions raised by the town boards were mainly concerned with the possibility of perpetuity of a Redevelopment Authority, and the ways it could be dissolved, and, secondly, the manner in which the town might be able to reduce the powers of the authority, such as Redevelopment power.

Mangini, with the members of the Industrial Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, told the assembled group that there could be an amendment to Article 34 which creates the authority, so that it would be limited to the project at hand (Eames Street).

Mangini, in reply to repeated questions, mainly from the Chairman of the Finance Committee, said that it was desirable to retain for the authority the powers of Redevelopment, rather than put the Authority in the position of having to sell the land off Eames St. once it had been assembled.

With a power of Redevelopment, he said, the Authority would be in a better position to improve the land for industry. Many industries, he said, do not want to have to put in their own improvements. The Authority may find it advantageous, he said, to extend power, or gas, or sewer lines into the project. The power would be had only if it were into, and not just up to the project.

Under the power to assemble the land, which some members of the committees seemed to deem was all that was needed, Mangini said, the town would be able to assemble all the land (35 or 40 acres) but would not be able to improve it.

The question of whether the town would have the power to dissolve the Authority unilaterally was never answered by Mangini. He said that such an Authority could vote to dissolve itself, after which the Town Meeting could vote to dissolve the Authority.

On the other hand, Mangini told his audience, the Authority would be under the power of the Town Meeting, the Planning Board, and the Board of Selectmen at several steps during the proposed project development, and a negative vote on any of those occasions could stop the Authority from proceeding until it had conformed to the ideas of the Planning Board, or Selectmen, or Town Meeting.

Stanley Webber, of the Chamber of Commerce, made it clear that the Chamber intended to propose, in the Town Meeting, that the Redevelopment Authority be limited to the Eames Street project.

Dick Barry, chairman of the Finance Committee, indicated that the proposed amendment would help to satisfy many of his doubts about the articles. He said further that he would like to see the project limited to land assembly at this time. He indicated that he would prefer that the decision on redevelopment should be made after the Land Assembly had taken place.

Mangini again explained that no Redevelopment could take place without prior approval of the town Meeting. Selectman Lloyd Bender added that the town's control of appropriations provided another means of checking the authority.

In the process of answering questions from the floor, Mangini informed those present that the state would re-imburse 50% of the cost of any Redevelopment to the town. The state, he said, also has the power of approval, along with the Board of Selectmen, over final disposition of the land.

The question on the power of the town over dissolution of the authority was raised repeatedly. According to the General Laws the power to dissolve the Authority rests with itself, in initiating the actions. Mangini said that, not being a lawyer, he could not answer a question as to whether or not a town meeting could dissolve the Authority.

He added, however, that it was apparent to him that the Authority would have no reason to perpetuate itself were its plans disapproved and no funds granted by the town.

The meeting began to break up about 9 pm, when the Board of Selectmen had to leave to conduct their own meeting in the Town Hall.

NEW REVENUE SEEN FROM INDUSTRIAL URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Articles #33, #34, and #35 in the Warrant for the Town Meeting on March 12 pertaining to an Urban Renewal Project and a Redevelopment Authority. The purpose is to gain for industrial development approximately 30 acres of land bordering on Eames Street and the Boston & Maine Railroad. This area is almost entirely undeveloped and unused and is of little value to either the town or its owners because it consists of many parcels of land to which there is no clear title.

The proposed Urban Renewal Project is the only practical way to establish clear titles to the various parcels of land in this area so that an industry would be able to purchase them. Most of the land is already zoned for industry.

If the proposed articles are approved by the Town Meeting, a Redevelopment Authority would be set up consisting of 5 members. One of the members would be appointed by the State for a period of 3 years and then for a 5 year term. He would be a resident of Wilmington. Four of the members would be appointed by the Board of Selectmen to serve until the next annual election. At this election 4 members would be elected to serve varying terms; the one having the highest number of votes to serve the longest term. Each subsequent year a member would be elected to replace the member whose term has expired. Members of the Redevelopment Authority serve without compensation.

Once the project is completed the Redevelopment Authority can be dissolved by vote of the town and its own vote. It could also be allowed to remain dormant until another project was approved by the town for action by the Redevelopment Authority (beautification, etc.). Laws relating to the establishment and operation of a Redevelopment Authority are contained in Chapter 121, Sec. 26 J - 26 JJJ.

The initial appropriation of $2000 would be to cover clerical and other expenses during the initial phase of the Redevelopment Authority's work. During this phase, the Redevelopment Authority will compile general information about the project including an estimate of the cost of a complete Planning Study. With the approval of the Planning Board and Board of Selectmen, an application for a Planning Grant will be made to the State. If approved, the State will advance 75% of the estimated cost in order to carry out the planning phase of the project. The town's share of the cost can be supplied as services of town employees, and it is possible that the planning phase could be carried out without the need of further appropriations.

If and when the project is finally approved (by the Planning Board, Board of Selectmen, Town Meeting, and State Division of Urban Renewal), funds would be needed by the Redevelopment Authority to carry out the project. These would cover operating expenses of the Redevelopment Authority, salary for a Project Director, if needed, funds for acquisition of land, and development of project area. These funds would have to be appropriated by the town.

The amount of these funds would be estimated as part of the plan, so that this can be taken into consideration before the plan is approved. Since the town owns a substantial amount of the land in the proposed project area and would derive income from the sale of this land to industry, it is believed that all of the initial costs should be recovered without difficulty. If there is any net cost to the town after the project is completed, the State will reimburse the town 50% of this net cost.

The following figures represent an estimate of the area that could be reclaimed under this project and an indication of the tax revenue that could be realized by the Town of Wilmington:

PROJECT

Proposed reclamation of Industrial and Residential land bordered by Eames Street, the Boston & Maine Railroad and the Town Line at Woburn.

MAXIMUM AREA

Town owned app. 17.87 acres
Privately owned app. 12.87 acres
Paper streets app. 10.77 acres
Total app. 40.83 acres

Of this amount of area, it is estimated that upwards of 38.68 acres is suitable for development.

A recent sale of comparable industrial land in the area was at the rate of about $4,500.00 per acre.

Based on the Comparable Sale Value, the proposed Urban Renewal land with marketable title would have an Undeveloped Land Fair Market Value of:

Area to be developed 38.68 acres
Less - area allocated to streets 4.00 acres
Balance available for Improvements 34.68 acres

35 acres @ $4,500.00 per acre $157,500.00

TAX REVENUE

$157,500.00 @ $40.00 per $1000.00 of assessed value 6,300.00
Estimated income from taxes for the year 1965 580.90
Estimated tax income gain per year (land only) $5,719.10
Each $1,000,000.00 of construction at a tax rate of $40.00 per $1000.00 of valuation represents a tax revenue of $40,000.00

This project offers Wilmington the opportunity to reclaim idle and unproductive land and convert it to highly desirable industrial land by taking advantage of the current State Law (Chapter 121 Sec. GGG-HHH). An industrial park in this area would offer sites with rail facilities as well as good access to major highways, and Wilmington would benefit from the increased revenue which would be realized.

Metropolitan Area Planning Council

One of the more startling facts at the March 3rd meeting of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, of which Wilmington is a member, was presented in a summary report of the Economic Base and Population Study recently completed by the Council. Included in the study were projections of industrial and commercial growth.

According to the trends of the past sixteen years, the Council found, industrial development in the area around Boston would decline in the next twenty years, while commercial or non-industrial growth was anticipated.

Local representatives, which included Mrs. Madeleine McKie of Wilmington, were told that the progressive community would compete for commercial firms rather than manufacturing as it was felt that commercial expansion would be the factor which would raise the personal income in the area.

At present the Council is engaged in the $4.8 million P-34 project, in conjunction with the Mass. Dept. of Commerce and Development, MBTA, DPW, US Bureau of Public Roads, and the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Government.

Objectives of the program are to prepare a comprehensive transportation-land use plan and development program by 1967, and to initiate a continuing planning process for the region.

This represents one of the most ambitious planning projects ever undertaken and includes the Metropolitan areas of Boston, Brockton, Lawrence, Haverhill, Lowell and parts of two other areas. It contains 2300 square miles and 152 cities and towns populated by more than 3.5 million people. The council hopes that legislation will follow the planning stage of the project.

Other reports in the March 3rd meeting to the representatives, (among whom were gubernatorial appointees, state legislators, town managers and mayors) were Open Space and Recreation, Solid Waste Disposal, Northeast Corridor, Metropolitan Airport System, and the Jamaicaway Study summaries.

IPSWICH RIVER (From Fr. Page)

ter for water supplies will become members of a Commission.

The commission would control all usage of new water uses in the proposed Ipswich Watershed District. No community could add to its wells or water supplies with out approval of the Commission. Each town and city would have but one vote, and the majority would have to approve any action.

Eminent Domain powers would be given to the Commission, and the bill specifically mentions that the Commission can construct impoundment areas in various locations, to store water for downstream users.

The bill was based on the Report of the Water Resources Commission, House Bill No. 4100 of 1965. (This bill was reported in the Town Crier last spring).

The proponents of the bill asked for specific rights to take, by Eminent Domain, the old Middlesex Canal, so as to transfer water from the Concord River, in Billerica, to the Ipswich River, in Wilmington.

Proposed are six impoundment areas in Wilmington, with a total storage capacity of over one and a half billion gallons of water, 250 million gallons of water would be stored in the area of the Barbo Development, in East Wilmington.

Malcolm Graf

Selectmen Bender and Niles, after the hearing spent a total of three hours in the office of Malcolm Graf, Director and Chief Engineer of the Water Resources Commission of Massachusetts.

Graf told the two selectmen that he had not sponsored the bill, and that he felt that there too many powers in the proposed legislation. He did not approve of the Eminent Domain provisions, nor of the right of the Commission to construct any facilities it deemed needed.

It was his opinion that the bill should either be rewritten completely, or that the whole matter should be referred to a legislative study group.

It was the impression of Bender and Niles that he preferred the latter course.

Graf said that, since this was the first bill of its type in Massachusetts, he preferred that it become a 'Model Bill', and the bill as proposed, he said 'was not it' However, he admitted that he was under pressure, to get some sort of a bill of this type passed by the legislature this year.

Even while the two Wilmington Selectmen were in the office of Mr. Graf he received a telephone call from Representative Hatch, who was urging that he rework the bill, so that it could be used by the legislature in the present session.

A further hearing has already been slated, for next Monday, in the State House. It is proposed at that time that the various state officials concerned will make a decision as to whether or not the bill will be sent to the Committee on Water Resources.

MONTE GREEN (From Fr. Pg.)

Green also told the Town Crier that he did not see any necessity of having to sell alcoholic refreshments at the proposed stadium. Plans for any sale of beer or other liquors simply did not exist, he declared.

Boston costs too high

The proposed stadium, which is sought to be erected in or near Boston would never be erected, Green declared. The costs, he said, would simply be too much to allow the construction.

A stadium could cost as much as $80 million in Boston, and he reminded his audience that the original figures were in the neighborhood of $90 millions.

Land available for a stadium in the Boston area would cost about two or three hundred thousand dollars an acre, and then, because the available sites are filled in places, where formerly there had been water, there would be the expensive need of driving piles for the stadium.

'I have heard' he declared, that it would cost $18 millions to put the necessary piling in place'.

Sound site

The Wilmington site is excellent for the purpose of a stadium, because of the underlying rock and gravel strata, Mr Green told his audience.

Test borings have been made, but not a complete set, because that is scheduled for the future. A complete set of borings will cost in the neighborhood of $2 million.

Green said that there would be transportation in addition to that of persons who drive their own cars to the site.

Conversations have been held with the Boston & Maine RR, and that corporation will run special trains to the site of the stadium, or, if it so happens that the MBTA should take over, there would probably be MBTA trains direct from Boston.

He did not confirm the last item. He did say, however, that the Eastern Massachusetts Street Rail way was willing to run special buses to the stadium site.

There would be plenty of parking he assured his listeners. Parking next to the stadium would accommodate 44,000 fans, and if there were a special event that would fill the stadium to capacity (55,000) there would be auxiliary parking only a short distance away.

The company would operate a shuttle bus system to the auxiliary parking site.

Among those who were with Mr Green while he spoke was Sidney Schenker, architect. Mr. Schenker is employed as an architect for such projects as the construction of theatres for nationally known firms.

Four members of the Wilmington Planning Board were present, and had a long discussion on seating and other arrangements.

Also present were Selectmen Charles H Black and James McCell.

ple provides the work for most of the men. Olive trees and sheep dot the hills, and life is somewhat primitive among these people who are so free with a small and a warm greeting.

Thanks to a few who spoke some Italian and a girl who had learned some English, I was able to start learning Greek. Even the limited immediate results were met by smiles of approval everywhere.

Daily activities ranged from helping to gather firewood to taking a walk to the well in the center of the village to carry home drinking water in earthen jugs. The latter is regarded as somewhat of a social activity, with stops to greet and chat with friends.

I well remember the stillness of the moonlit olive groves and the lights of the Albanian shore across the water. It seems ironic that one must go to the poor and humble to find real peace and quiet in this ever 'progressing' world.

Having absorbed the atmosphere of this 'poor paradise' for a week, I continued around the island, only to plant myself for another week in a similar village where I caused a stir for several days by helping a new-found friend who was building a house. The people found it difficult to comprehend that an American could be so common as to work with his hands... and for nothing too.

Finally, after my two week indoctrination at Corfu, the boat took me to the Mainland, at Igoumenitsa.

From here I followed the rugged countryside through Ioannina, Arta, Patras and Olympia, where I viewed the ancient city including the original site of the Olympic Games.

Continuing through Tripolis, Argos, Epidavros and Corinth, I saw many ancient ruins including a theatre which seats 14,000 people and is still used to stage original Greek plays during the festival season there.

I found the city of Taormina enchanting, surrounded by Mediaeval walls with Mt. Etna forming the background. Its position, nestled on the hillside, gives a beautiful view of the coast below, for many miles.

At Catania I decided to press my motor scooter into taxiing service. I drove up Mt. Etna as far as the road goes. At approximately 6000 feet above sea level the view was crystal clear, and I used my camera to record the inspiring scene.

I returned to the 'boot' of Italy and followed the coastal road to Taranto and Brindisi, where I prepared to depart for Greece, by ship.

I must say that, other than some over-anxious shopkeepers, I found nothing extra-ordinary to fear in my journey through the notorious southern part of Italy. I have always found that the best weapon to combat present or possible hostility is the sincerity of your purpose in being there.

Rather than stay on the ship all the way to Athens, I decided I would get off at the first stop, which was the island of Corfu. I then could explore the country side as I drove on to Athens.

I initially intended to stay one or two days seeing this island, and hoping to get a quick first-hand look at a small Greek village, I headed for the tiny remote harbor of Kassiope.

Being the only tourist there at the time, I was well received and was able to mix quite freely with the friendly people. The small fishing port of this village of 650 peo-

Selectmen & School Board

High School Elects

Wilmington High School students conducted their own 'town' election Monday, using the same voting booths, ballot boxes, etc that had been used by the voters of Wilmington the previous Saturday.

The 'vote' was a project of the League of Women Voters of Wilmington, who were giving the students a practical demonstration of the mechanics of voting.

At stake were five Selectmen posts, and six School Committee seats.

Nominated as Selectmen were Fay DeAvignon, Kenneth Foberg, Robert Given, John Harrington, Malvin Jacobs, Louis Kleynan, Wesley Kobylak, Michael O'Reilly and Ronald Thomas.

The elected Selectmen will now choose a Town Manager, and the group will be observers in a regular Selectman's meeting.

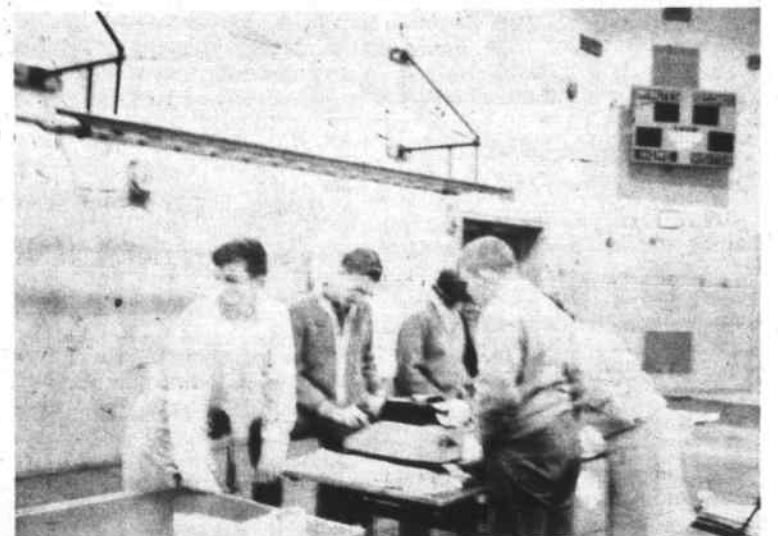

School Committee candidates included Cathi Anderson, Harry Arnone, Marilyn Boudreau, Marcia Cram, Victoria Fogg, Betsy Hodgkins, Michael Kaszynski, Virginia Lippello, David MacEachern, Leslie Meads, Diane Peterson, Paul Reitchel, Linda Squires and Ron Wolff.

The successful candidates are now to choose a student who will be 'Superintendent of Schools' and the group will attend a School Committee meeting as observers.

Candidates for Student Town Manager, and Student Superintendent of Schools were asked, Tuesday afternoon, to submit resumes of their qualifications, for the consideration of the respective boards

New Junior Rotarians

Two new Junior Rotarians were welcomed by the Rotary Club of Wilmington, yesterday, during the regular Wednesday luncheon.

Douglas Crawford, son of Mr and Mrs Ralph Crawford of Chase Road, was one of the new Junior Rotarians. He is a member of the Math League, in High School, and a member of the Interact Club. Douglas was Freshman Football Manager, and his hobbies are mathematics, basketball and fishing. His future plans are to enter the University of Massachusetts.

Charles (Chuck) Moeglin, son of Mr and Mrs Ernest Moeglin of Gunderson Road was the other Junior Rotarian.

Moeglin is a member of the High School football team, the Track Team, and the Math League. His hobbies include boxing and athletics. His future plans are to enter the University of Massachusetts.

The new Junior Rotarians were welcomed and introduced by Harold S Shea, Superintendent of Schools, and were awarded their Junior Rotarian badges by President Bernard McMahon.

CHURCHES PLAN 'LIVING ROOM DIALOGUES'

The churches of Wilmington are initiating a new inter-faith activity this spring. This new program evolved locally in response to the enthusiasm for 'grass-roots' ecumenism shown during the Annual Week of Prayer for Christian Unity. Many of the people who consistently attended the Annual Unity meetings as well as many of the newcomers, expressed regret that dialogue seemed restricted to this one week a year.

Apparently these particular sentiments have been manifested in many other communities in the United States. To meet this need a new series of meetings has been initiated as a pilot program in at least 15 other areas in the country, in which laymen meet to discuss questions of Christian Unity. These meetings are called 'Living Room Dialogues' and are jointly sponsored by the Christian Unity Division of the National Council of Churches, and the Apostolate of Good Will of the National Confederation of Christian Doctrine.

The guide book for the meetings also entitled 'Living Room Dialogues' is jointly edited by Rev. William Greenspun C.S.P., the National Director of the Apostolate of Good Will and Rev. William Norgren, Executive Director of the Department of Faith and Order of the National Council of Churches' Division of Christian Unity.

The Book contains material and resource readings for seven dialogues to take place on a monthly basis. Each Dialogue begins with prayers for unity and a Bible reading, followed by discussion on a pertinent question of Christian Unity.

The seven dialogues listed in the guide book are: 1. Concern, Prayer, Love: Foundation for Dialogue; 2. Good Conversation in Christ; 3. How Do We Worship? 4. Our Common Christian Heritage; 5. Renewal of God's People; 6. Our Common Christian Witness and 7. Why We Don't Break Bread Together.

This program will begin in the fourth week of March, with three groups comprised of members of the various churches in Wilmington. The three dialogue groups will be meeting at the homes of Mr and Mrs Austin Rounds, Mr and Mrs Herbert Higley, and Mr and Mrs Peter G. Melchiono. The people who expressed interest during Unity Week are now being contacted and the groups will be established.

For further information call Mr and Mrs Peter Melchiono at 658-8479.

Library Trustees Will Ask for New Library

The Board of Library Trustees, meeting Monday evening, decided to ask the people of Wilmington to vote for a new Library, Saturday, in the Town Meeting, in spite of the adverse report of the Finance Committee. The vote was 5 to 1, with Mrs Larz Neilson dissenting.

The meeting began with a discussion of possible Federal aid, and other reports, by Mrs Neilson. She was reporting conversations with Mrs Betty Flynn, of the Massachusetts Division of Library Extension, Dept. of Education.

Mrs Neilson told the board that there are no federal funds available, at present, under the Library Services and Construction Act. Money was available last fall, but when the application had to be withdrawn because of the adverse vote in Town Meeting the town lost all chances of Fiscal 1966 funds.

The question of future monies being available, Mrs Neilson said, was undecided. Legislation has not yet been passed in Congress for extending and renewing the Library Services and Construction Act of 1964 beyond June 1966.

Rep. Carl Perkins, D, of Kentucky has introduced a bill to extend and considerably amend the act, with larger sums being asked, Mrs. Neilson said, and there are other bills which have been introduced.

Phillip Buzzell did not think that any money would be available because of President Johnson's War in Vietnam, and he didn't like the idea of the town accepting Federal money anyway. During the course of the evening he made this clear several times.

Mrs Neilson felt that there would be Federal funds, that the board should wait a few months and find out if funds were possibly coming, and that meanwhile more information about what is being prepared should be given to the voters—that they be given a chance to study what they were being asked to pay for.

The other four members, Dr. Ernest Wallent, Mrs May Hadley, Chairman Ralph Kelmon and Miss Frankline Allen, felt that the voters should have a chance at this meeting to decide whether or not to go ahead, now, without federal aid.

The board noted that the Finance Committee of Federal and State aid was slightly in error, as there has never been any state aid in the construction of libraries, nor has any ever been proposed.

LETTERS

colonial style has tall windows allowing for plenty of natural light, (Mr. Guarino's colonial style for Wilmington did not.); its interior arrangement is excellent. Its design also allows for three full areas for future expansion. Bedford's Librarian is afraid the $20 per sq. ft. cost estimate is too low. Perhaps it is, but even if Bedford has to increase their total cost to $336,000 or about $24 per sq. ft., the town will be getting a building well worth its cost. Architects? The well known library firm of Korslund, LeNormand and Quann, Inc. with Arlington, East Bridgewater, Norwood, etc library work to their credit.

Federal Aid will cover $50,000 of the $260,000.

The Town of Wilmington should try again for a good library.

Sincerely
Evelyn M Norton

EDITORIALS

But such a memory should not be allowed or used to interfere with the present project, nor with any sound discussion or thinking in relation thereto.

This project is quite different. The business men of Wilmington want to see the project accomplished in a minimum of time, with a minimum of red tape and other fuss, and give the town a maximum return in tax dollars and better living.

It is an honest proposal, made under the latest state, not federal laws. There are ample safeguards in that law, as it is written.

Moves to cripple the powers of the men who will be conducting that project can only harm Wilmington.

The boys in the FinCom should stop looking over their left shoulder. The only thing they can see there is the shadow of the political leaders who killed the last project.

Dear Sir:

I wonder how many on the Finance Committee own dogs, or have dogs that are 'harmless' or 'never bother anyone'? I think that their position against the leash law in Wilmington on the grounds of expense is a beautiful sentiment in these times, but I for one am willing to bear my share of the cost if it would mean that my wife and I could enjoy a stroll along Shaw-sheen Avenue without fear of dogs.

My wife, who is expecting soon, refuses to take the recommended walks because she knows that she will be bothered by dogs, as was the case a few times when she decided to walk home from the shopping center. I am even worse because my fear of dogs is inborn.

What I would like to know, then, is what recourse do such as we have if the leash law is not passed. That is, other than staying in our own yard, or driving, or getting a hunting license?
